AIRPLANE TAKES PART IN PEKING FUNERAL

Unusual Honor Paid Memory of Mother of Aeronautics Director.

PEKING, Oct. 15.—As the long funeral procession for the mother of Pan Chuyin, newly appointed director of the Aeronautical Department, wound through the streets of Peking there circled overhead a great Vimy airplane, marking the initial appearance in China of an airplane at a funeral procession.

On the street below a large number of banners and gorgeously embroidered cloths came first, followed by 3 bands, an army detachment, several hundred hired Chinese coolies and Buddhist priests from numerous temples. The high rank of the family of the dead woman was shown by the fact that the platform bearing the coffin was borne by sixty-four men, for in China a funeral is often a most important event and certainly the greatest chance offered for display.

TO OCCUPY NEW GINTER PARK CHURCH TODAY

Corner-Stone of Baptist Edifice Was Laid Exactly One Year Ago.

The congregation of Ginter Park Baptist Church will occupy their new building at the morning service today. The corner-stone was laid exactly one year ago to the day prior to its occupancy for worship. The pastor, Rev. William Hedley, who has been with the church for the last four years, will preach the opening sermon.

The edifice, as it stands, cost $60,000. Much yet remains to be done to make it complete in every detail. Much of the material used in its construction was taken from the old Grace Street Presbyterian Church, which stood at Fourth and Grace Streets for fifty years, being built more than half a century ago. Artistically, the church is considered one of the most attractive in or around Richmond.

This morning the Sunday school will celebrate the opening of the new church, opening with a short prayer service under direction of W. D. Gresham and Mrs. G. G. Worsham. Mrs. Charles Gantt Harris will render several vocal selections and addresses will be made by Rev. W. J. Clark, D. D., president of the Virginia Union University, and Rev. C. B. Arendall.

Mr. Hedley, who formerly was of England, and who later was pastor of the Baptist Church at Ashland, Va., was called to the pastorate December 1, 1917. Ground was broken for the new building April 6, 1921. Ernest W. Farley was chairman of the building committee.

The church was organized with seventy-nine members. The membership today numbers 146. W. D. Duke is chairman of the board of deacons, with the following associates: Ernest W. Farley, P. W. Duke, C. S. Fenson, L. D. Lacy and E. D. Gunter. Mr. Fenson also is superintendent of the Sunday school, which has an enrollment of 175.

REO SEDAN TAKES BEAUTY SHOW PRIZE

Captures Unique Honor at International Wheat Show at Wichita.

Taking prizes in a beauty contest is a new and rather unique roll played by a Reo Sedan and touring car. But this is what happened at the International Wheat Show in Wichita, Kansas, the other day, and a description of the beauty parade has just been received by A. F. Franklin of the Franklin Motor Company, local Reo distributors, in a letter from the Wichita distributor.

The Reo touring car was entered in the $1,000 to $2,000 class, and the new Sedan was entered in the $2,000 to $3,000 class. The points upon which the judges based their decision were appearance, smoothness of operation and ease of control. The Reo Sedan took first prize, and the new Reo Light Seven outranked everything in its class. The automobile fashion parade and contest were features of the wheat show in Wichita. More than one hundred cars of different makes were entered in the show.

CHILDREN'S CODE BODY TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Recommend to Legislature Change in Name of Charities and Corrections Board.

It is learned on authority of the chairman of the Virginia Children's Code Commission, Justice J. Hoge Ricks, of the juvenile court, that the recommendation of the commission to the next Legislature will be that the State Board of Charities and Corrections be known as the State Board of Public Welfare, and that questions arising under the head of public welfare be referred to this board.

"The first work of the commission," said Justice Ricks, "was to study the reports of the Children's Code Commission of other States. We found that North Carolina, Alabama, Missouri, West Virginia and some of the Southern States already have made great strides. North Carolina and Alabama have excellent State-wide juvenile court laws, that of North Carolina being recognized as the most progressive in the country.

"In Virginia, at the present time, of the numerous officials in the county, no one is expressly charged with the responsibility of caring for neglected children. There is no probation system in the country districts and no supervision in homes. In making its report to the next Legislature, the commission will recommend that the State Board of Charities and Corrections be known as the State Board of Public Welfare, public-spirited citizens in the counties serving without pay, constituting the Child Welfare Commission for each county."

The Virginia Children's Code Commission will assemble on Wednesday and Thursday in Richmond, for its fifth meeting since its appointment by Governor Westmoreland Davis in April. Members of the commission, all of whom are serving without pay, and without appropriation for expenses, are: Justice J. Hoge Ricks, chairman; Dr. Mary Brydon, director of the Child Welfare Department of the State Board of Health, vice chairman; C. H. Morissette, director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, secretary; Judge Der, of the Juvenile Court of Norfolk; Dr. Lawrence Boyester, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Norfolk; Mrs. Louis Brownlow, of Petersburg, chairman of the Child Welfare Committee of the Virginia League of Women Voters; Mrs. W. W. King, of Staunton, director of the Tenth congressional district, Virginia League of Women Voters; Miss Nora Houston, of Richmond, legislative chairman of the Virginia League of Women Voters.

The vacancy caused by the death of the late J. W. Stephenson, of Bath County, also a member, probably will be filled at the next meeting.

Alabama Lawyer Jailed.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Oct. 15.—D. Henry Riddell, lawyer, of Talladega, Ala., convicted with six others last November at Anniston, Ala., on the charge of conspiracy and fraudulent use of the mails, was surrendered late yesterday by his bondsmen and placed in jail in Anniston. Riddell was one of the defendants in an alleged swindle by which it is charged a number of North Carolina cotton concerns were fleeced of nearly $1,000,000.

STUART PRESIDES AT MARKER UNVEILING

Bishop Collins Denny Will Make Principal Address When Vell Is Withdrawn From Tablet.

Former Governor Henry C. Stuart, of Russell County, will preside at the unveiling on Thursday, October 27, of a bronze tablet, which will mark the site of the church where Francis Asbury, first bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America, preached his last sermon, one week before his death. The tablet was executed by E. William Stevers, at his studio in Forest Hill. It will be attached to the walls of a tobacco factory at Twenty-first and Franklin Streets, which now occupies the site of the first Methodist Church in Richmond.

Bishop Collins Denny will make the principal address and his little grandson, Collins Denny White, will unveil the marker. Sixteen bishops, who will be in Richmond on October 26, to attend the College of Bishops, will be present.
